Hi and thanks for purchasing my first IR pack.

I believe in quality over quantity and this pack only have the best captures of my cabs I actually use in my productions. Well…I use my real miked cabs but these are pretty much indistinguishable from the actual miked cabs and I wouldn't have any problems using these instead of the real deals.

I spent quite a bit of time to make these and tried various methods until I found the way to capture the "woof" and the full sound of my real miked cabs. This was really important to me because I wanted these to be better than anything else I've tried and pretty much exactly the same than my real cabs so I could actually use these. And I must say that I succeeded \m/.

The cabs are:
- Mesa/Boogie OS from 1994 with Celestion Vintage 30s.
  - Top right speaker (my favourite) miked with Shure SM57 & Royer 121
- Marshall 1960B with Eminence Karnivore & DV-77s.
  - Both speakers on the "upper row" (my favourites) miked with Shure SM57 & Royer 121
  - I mostly use these two miked just with SM57 but captured them with the Royer too.

Processing:
- All mics go through SSL Revival 4000 or Super 9000 channel strips.
- There's two versions of each IR: one with SSL "black knob" EQ and one without the EQ. The EQ is quite subtle but to me it makes a difference. I'm just taking out some boomy lows & low mids and harsh upper mids and adding nice airy top.

Because these IRs, and especially the Royer 121s, really capture the "woof" of my cabs please be aware that the low end might get even too big so dial your amp sim / system / platform accordingly because, no matter what Yngwie says, sometimes more is too more :-).

I hope these will make your sound even better and inspire you to play and create great music.

Woof!
